That is another typical summary of the case. There were hundreds such as this, which shows how they brush aside opposition in America. Whatever happens now the W.O.'s in the American Navy stand to win fair opportunity for good ability for no one will after this dare to oppose the recognition of ability when it is found in the lower ranks. We in England do things in another way. We will not argue which is best, but we do once again deplore the fact that that gallant old Admiral Sampson has lost a promotion he had so well earned by an honest expression of opinion.

* * * * *

This is another extract :—

“ Public men are fond of making fools of themselves in many ways and of showing their true characters. Admiral Sampson, who hereafter must be looked upon as a disgrace to American citizenship and to the American Navy, has expressed his feebleness of spirit, practically and completely.

Wise legislation demanded by public opinion has at last authorized the promotion in the navy of men from the ranks.

Gunner Morgan, a man as Sampson admits of admirable character, good education, temperate habits and professional ability applied for promotion.

Admiral Sampson, the unparalleled idiot of public life, vetoes the man's application on the ground, if you please, that he is not “ a gentleman.”

Admiral Sampson, the most extraordinary example of a two-legged idiot that the world has ever seen, feels that if men should be promoted from the ranks they would “ not know how to behave at social parties on board ship.” Read this extract from the letter of Sampson, the amazing micro-cephalic Admiral :

“ While it is true that these men are selected from a large class of men of very unusual ability, which distinguishes them as perhaps the professional equals of their officers as far as their technical education stands, it is also true that they are recruited from a class of men who have not had the social advantages that are a requisite for a commissioned officer.”

Therefore, according to Admiral Sampson's view, the United States of America is to be deprived of the services and command of any American sailor who happens not to come up to Sampson's idea of dancing class manners.
